Product Description

Venturing outside of the traditional portraiture box, students will discover a colourful, expressive and efficient way to create a different kind of portrait. Starting with the understanding of the planes of the head and including value studies, we will use an array of materials and techniques (from painting and drawing, patterns to line) to understand the unique challenges of creating successful portraits from photographs or models. Students will work to develop their own expressive style of portraiture.. Students must bring materials. Please see document link above.
